

Mondrian, Los Angeles

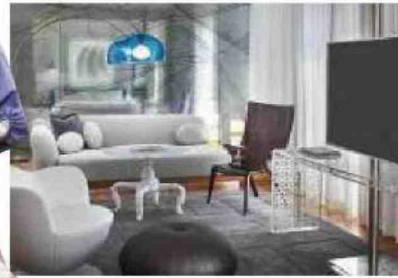

A whimsical retreat on West Hollywood's Sunset Strip

THE LOW DOWN

Mondrian Los Angeles isn't just a hotel; it's a travel destination that merges luxury with playful fantasy. Located on the iconic Sunset Strip, Mondrian was originally designed by Philippe Starck and underwent a $19-million redesign in 2019, inspired by Alice in Wonderland. The result is a modern fairytale, where guests are greeted by 30-foot mahogany doors and a vibrant lobby featuring custom furniture, a Lucite swing, and a mushroom-inspired concierge desk. The "Magic Box" art gallery showcases LA-based contemporary artists, adding a cultural touch. The 236 redesigned rooms are a mix of eclectic and sculptural design, featuring floor-to-ceiling windows, soft color palettes, bold patterns, and luxurious marble bathrooms.

perfect for soaking up the sun; by night, it becomes a lively spot with curated events and top DJs, attracting trendsetters from around the world. Ivory on Sunset also stands out as a must-visit with stunning city views and a menu of classic and contemporary dishes.
